

USALCO continues to monitor coronavirus developments very closely, especially as we enter into the flu season. We are committed to providing our customers continued uninterrupted service and supply of our products, while maintaining the health and safety of our employees, customers, and our community.

We have put into place the appropriate safeguards at all of our facilities and worked closely with our raw material suppliers to ensure supply chain continuity. In addition, we have developed contingency plans to ensure continued operations at all of our manufacturing facilities, as well as alternate transportation options, if needed.

Considering the fluid nature of this Covid-19 environment, we will make timely decisions and take the necessary actions to adjust our response to this virus as the situation changes.

USALCO thanks you for your support.
